ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR LIBERTY LOAN RALLY

U. S. Marines Will Participate in the Parade Saturday Night.

Arrangements for the big Liberty loan rally, which is to be held Saturday evening in the Town hall have been practically completed and everything points toward a huge success. Previous to the meeting there will be one of the best parades seen in this city in a long time. The committee has been exceedingly fortunate in securing a company of United States Marines from the submarine base. The Marines will bring one of their own bands which is considered one of the best in the service.

Besides sending the marines Commander Rogers of the base has kindly allowed the committee to take one of the torpedoes and mount it on a truck to be drawn in the parade. This will be a unique feature and should draw a large crowd in itself.

Major John A. Hagberg, Spanish war veteran and major of the Third Battalion of Connecticut Home Guard, will act as chief marshal and will have as his aides members of the Spanish War Veterans dressed in the full Spanish war regalia. Hagberg will start at the state armory on McKinley avenue promptly at 7.30 o'clock.

The parade will proceed from the town hall to Union street, where the marines will be dismissed and return to the submarine base. The companies of Home Guard with the Italian band will proceed into the town hall where reserved seats will be awaiting their arrival. The parade will be in formation as follows:

Major Hagberg and Aides
Platoon of Police
Liberty Loan Committee of Norwich
City Officials
Marine Band
Tobacco on Truck
Detachment of U. S. Marines
Company K, C. H. G.
Company I, C. H. G.
Italian Band
Montville Company of Home Guard

An invitation to the Montville Home Guard has already been extended and the committee for the Liberty loan rally has expected to hear definitely today the result of the invitation, but it is expected that it will be accepted. It is very probable that this company will arrive in Norwich on the trolley this afternoon.

Rev. Joseph H. Selden has been secured as chairman of the rally. A Boston despatch says: 40 honor flags to cities and towns whose citizens have done more than was asked of them in the matter of subscribing to the third Liberty loan, the honor flag committee authorized today to add blue stars to their banners. Each star indicates a 100 per cent. over subscription. Montville, Conn., and Weston, Mass., were given one star each.

The 40 towns receiving honor flags included Dabrah, Conn.

FORMER NORWICH MAN KILLED IN HARTFORD

Cornelius Shannahan Struck by Flying Piece of Steel.

A flying piece of steel, entering the left eye of Cornelius Shannahan, formerly of this city and penetrating the brain caused death a half hour later in St. Francis' hospital, Hartford, Wednesday morning.

Shannahan was employed in the drop forging department of the Pratt & Whitney company, and was engaged, as he had been doing today, under a drop hammer. He was holding a "key" a strip of steel about nine inches long and an inch and a half square, against a die. A striking blow from the end of the key with a sledge hammer. Several blows had been given when a chip broke away from the steel head of the hammer and entered Shannahan's eye.

He fell over and soon became unconscious. He was removed at once to the hospital.

At the factory it was said that the repeated blows with the sledge had probably crystallized the steel and further blows caused the chip to fly off.

Mr. Shannahan was born in Ireland about thirty years ago. He went from Ireland to Australia and came to Norwich about six years ago. His only relative in this country is an aunt, Mrs. Kelley, of Asylum street, this city.

Acute Food Situation. Detailed information concerning the acute food situation in England and France was given in a statement made by Major Howard A. Giddings, a member of the Connecticut State Council of Defense, who has returned to Hartford after an official trip to France as a member of the Liberty loan mission.

Major Giddings left France after the present offensive had begun, and arrived in this country on Wednesday. He represented the state defense council and Governor Marcus H. Holcomb on his journey.

Dead as Result of Fall. James Sweeney, aged 49, died Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. His time ago he fell out of a window on the barn near the golf grounds, formerly owned by James E. DeWolfe and broke his back. He was taken to the Backus hospital by Selectman Bailey. Sweeney was 49 and was unmarried. He has relatives in Philadelphia. By trade he was a plumber and he said he could not tell how he came to be in the barn. Cummings & Ring took charge of the body.

Dance and Social.

The Norwich Dancing academy opened Wednesday evening with a dance and social. The program of 18 numbers arranged by J. A. Downing, instructor, music being furnished by Lang's orchestra.

Made Official Visit to Norwich. P. J. Garvin, inspector for the Connecticut state board of pharmacies, made an official visit to Norwich on Wednesday and called on local druggists.

WILL CALL EIGHTEEN MORE MEN

Local Board to Send Next Quota to Fort Slocum, N. Y.—Many Occupations Open to Men Within Draft Age—Applications Will Be Accepted Up to April 27th.

The local exemption board was on Wednesday notified that eighteen will be sent to Fort Slocum, N. Y., between May 1 and May 5. ALARMING SHORTAGE OF SEED CORN

Emergency Committee Issues Statement to Farmers in State

The emergency seed corn committee of the Connecticut food supply board issued the following statement to the farmers of Connecticut:

The seed corn situation in the state is serious. Four hundred and fifty bushels of seed corn have been taken to New Haven Experiment station. One-third of these are absolutely unfit for seed. One-third can be used only after a careful ear test. Not more than one-third of your best seed corn is fit for planting.

It is absolutely impossible to tell from the appearance of seed whether or not it is high or low in germination. It is essential that you test your seed corn this year.

The extreme shortage in the North-east states makes it desirable from a patriotic standpoint that every ear of seed corn be tested and saved for them. May we call to your attention the urgent need for seed corn? Pass the word along to your neighbor.

A statement issued Wednesday, Robert Scoville says:

As the planting season approaches, we trust you are giving serious thought to the question of how you can serve your country by planting the best possible use of your land. We appreciate the many difficulties under which the farmers of our state are laboring and recognize that there are limits to what can be done.

The people of Europe are using more food than ever before and are producing less. The submarine has made it impossible to bring food from far off countries like America and therefore they must look to America for help if they are to continue this struggle. The demand for farm products greatly exceeds the supply and prices are higher than for many years. Every farmer must decide for himself what crop he should grow, consulting his county agent for such assistance as may be needed.

It is natural that farmers should feel some discouragement and apprehension in looking into the future, but it must be remembered that these feelings are not by any means limited to any one class of our population. If they permit themselves to be controlled by this feeling, they will, before the end of the season, not only realize that they have signally failed in doing their duty toward their country, but have also missed an opportunity for profit which may not be again soon presented.

If we should lose this war because of the lack of food, and this is by no means impossible, would we not have something to reproach ourselves with if we do less than our utmost? The country is in a desperate straits with it an obligation which we are certain our farmers will wish to meet to the best of their ability.

SUBJECTS FOR ARBOR AND BIRD DAY

Tree Planting, Protection of Forests and Bird Life.

Copies of the 1918 Arbor Bird day manual, published by the state board of education, have been received in this city.

The observance of Arbor and Bird day each year has two purposes. To lead to the conservation and increase of bird life and tree and plant life, and to stimulate of nature and enjoyment of natural beauty.

This year the experience of a world at war and the experience, so recently past, of an unusually severe winter in this country teach us that the preservation of our trees, shrubs and vegetable life and of birds.

While we should not feel any less joy in the coming of spring and its appreciation of nature's charms, we must dwell more upon the needs of human life, and upon the contributions made toward those needs by trees and birds.

The general subjects suggested for Bird and Arbor day, 1918, are, therefore, Tree planting for useful as well as ornamental purposes, protection of forests from insect foes, from blight, from forest fires, and from waste in cutting; protection of bird life, by the teaching of the economic value of birds and providing nesting places; providing water when needed, by the teaching of love of birds.

WEDDING.

Hendry—Connell.

The marriage of Miss Mary Helena Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Connell of New London, to George Hendry of Waterford took place Wednesday morning with nuptial high mass in St. Mary's Star of the Sea church in New London.

Only members of the family and intimate friends attended the ceremony. The bride was Miss Margaret Flanagan and the groom was Mr. George Hendry. Rev. A. C. Wollschlaeger officiated.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hendry will return to New London, where they will make their home.

If you find it impossible to tell twins apart tell them together.
